AWARE

DO YOU CARE FOR A CHILD WITH ALLERGIES?

If you care for a child with food allergies you should –

- Find out the foods the child is allergic to.
 - Remove these foods from the area to avoid contact with the child.
(Tiny amounts of the food allergen could cause a severe reaction)
 - Ensure the child has suitable food while in your care (free from their allergen).
Always remember to read the ingredients on the food labels carefully.
 - Ensure the work surface and utensils for preparing the allergic child's food has been thoroughly cleaned with soapy water before using.
 - Always wash your hands before handling the child's food to avoid cross contamination with his/her allergen.
 - Know how to recognise the symptoms of an allergic reaction.
 - Have an emergency plan in place in the event of the child having an allergic reaction.
This should include receiving training in administering medication.
 - Keep the child's medication and emergency plan accessible at all times.
 - Act quickly if a child reports feeling unwell after eating.
- Symptoms of an allergic reaction can appear within seconds or up to an hour after exposure to the allergen.
 - Allergies can be managed well with understanding and co-operation from family, friends and people who care for those with allergies.
 - Allergies can be a matter of life or death.
Take allergies seriously, you could help save a child's life!
